*Connecticut's Leading Edge
In Rock Climbing*

Looking to host a party in a family-oriented environment that will give kids an adventure they'll never forget? Look no further than the Stone Age Rock Gym in Manchester.

Stone Age provides belayers, or live counselors, to control the ropes and give each guest instruction and encouragement. Climbers may also climb unroped in the facility's "bouldering cave," which features a low ceiling and padded floor. Each party gets a two hour climbing period with harness and shoe rentals. Additional time is available for food and gifts. A picnic table, located in a loft, overlooks the main climbing area where you can set up food and party favors.

Rock climbing parties at the Stone Age Rock Gym are appropriate for ages 6 and older (including adult parties). Ages 13 through adult are eligible for safety belay courses to teach them how to control the ropes themselves.

Each guest must have a "Visitor and Participant Agreement" form signed by his or her parent, easily completed online.
